I have waited all my life for this moment. For you to propose to me, the love of my life, in marriage. To have you happy and by my side. You are everything to me and I am waiting more than anything for you. We will write our whole life together. I love to feel you in my arms, to feel the love we have for each other. When you share my life, I am the luckiest person in the entire world. This moment together is one that I wish to last forever in my memory.
